Expertise and Research Interests

Research focus is on Integrated Farming Systems (IFS) and particularly on the variant of this as developed and refined by Prof George Chan. I am Seeking to demonstrate how the integrated aspects of the system provide compelling benefits to small farmers that offer superior returns as compared to investments in conventional farming technologies and approaches. This includes the eventual establishment of fully functional integrated farming center in the USA to prototype IFS approaches to address increasingly problematic conventional farming practices.

Other Interests

Community living, sustainable development, renewable energy, eco-architecture, eco-psychology, social sustainability and systems theory
